

At Healthy Living, we take pride in sourcing premium-quality fruits from Stemilt Growers, a family-owned company based in Wenatchee, Washington, known for producing some of the finest apples, cherries, and other tree fruits in the world. Stemilt's century-old commitment to growing fruit sustainably aligns perfectly with our mission to bring you fresh, responsibly sourced produce that supports both farming and the environment. Each piece of fruit we offer comes directly from orchards where tradition and innovation meet to deliver exceptional quality and taste.

Stemilt's sustainable farming practices are only part of the story. Our partnership with Stemilt ensures that every fruit we carry is harvested at its peak, hand-selected, and meticulously curated to bring the freshest flavors to your table. From crisp apples to juicy cherries, Stemilt's produce stands out because of the company's dedication to excellence at every stage of the growing and harvesting process. By choosing Stemilt-grown fruit at Healthy Living, you're not just enjoying incredible flavor—you're also supporting a farm-to-table relationship that emphasizes care for the land, community, and future generations.

Additionally, we are proud to source produce from a grower certified by the Equitable Food Initiative (EFI), a certification that reflects Stemilt's dedication to ethical farming practices. The EFI certification represents an industry-leading commitment to high labor standards, environmental sustainability, and food safety. By adhering to the EFI Ethical Charter, Stemilt empowers its workforce, ensuring fair wages, healthy working conditions, and opportunities for career advancement for farmworkers. This focus on equity and well-being helps create a more just and sustainable food system, from the orchards to your home.

The EFI standards also ensure that Stemilt's farming practices contribute to a safer and more transparent supply chain. EFI certification covers the entire farming operation, from food safety protocols to labor and environmental practices, ensuring that guests like you can trust the quality and ethical integrity of the fruit you purchase. By choosing Stemilt's EFI-certified produce at Healthy Living, you're not only getting the freshest, highest-quality fruit, but you're also making a socially responsible choice that supports workers' rights and environmental sustainability.

At Healthy Living we believe in offering more than just great products—we believe in making choices that matter. Through our partnership with Stemilt Growers and their EFI certification, we bring you fruits that reflect our commitment to quality, sustainability, and ethical sourcing. Every apple, cherry, and pear we offer carries with it the assurance that it was grown and harvested with care for both people and the planet. By choosing Stemilt, you're not just buying fruit—you're supporting a better, more equitable food system.
